Personality and Human Relations (known as "PRH" from the French Personnalité et Relations Humaines) uses a humanistic psycho-pedagogy approach that aims to develop the human person and relationships according to each person's potentials. PRH started in France since 1970, present in over 35 countries in the world, is now available in Malaysia. The approach used aims to help each person grow in self-awareness and autonomy, so that they can be more able to face the challenges in life, enhance their quality of life, self-actualise and relate better personally and professionally.
